	BSBTWK401	Build and maintain business relationships	Elective
	*Inclusion of these units is required to be eligible to apply for registration as a Commonwealth-Registered Marriage Celebrant Many students ask me if they MUST complete the funeral celebrancy unit. In a word, yes. I want all of my celebrancy graduates to walk out into the world fully confident and able to perform a wide range of ceremonies, including funerals. Every marriage celebrant will be asked to perform a funeral at some point during their career, and I want my graduates to be prepared so that when that phone call comes, they don't feel the need to impose on an experienced funeral celebrant and ask if they can copy one of their scripts. It's unprofessional and unfair, so I insist that all of my students complete this unit.
Pre-requisites	There are no official pre-requisites for this qualification or any of the units of competency contained within it.
Entry Requirements	There are no formal entry requirements for the Cert IV in Celebrancy, however, the professional nature of the celebrant's role requires that the celebrant has at least Year 10 level proficiency in spoken and written English, and other literacy and numeracy skills as outlined below. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Writing: The nature of the role is that the celebrant is totally responsible for all aspects of the client interaction, from completing legal documentation to writing cohesive and grammatically correct ceremonies, and everything in between. Difficulty with writing clearly and cohesively in English may mean the celebrant is unable to appropriately communicate with their clients, accurately complete legal documentation, or create meaningful written ceremonies. • Speaking: The celebrant is required to deliver a ceremony to audience numbers that range from five people to several hundred. Someone who has difficulty speaking English would not be appropriate for this course. • Listening: The celebrant is required to gather and interpret information from clients in relation to their legal status and the content of their ceremony. Someone who has hearing difficulties may find it difficult to discuss these requirements unless both the celebrant and the client are fluent in sign language. • Reading: The celebrant is required to read and understand marriage law and other legislation, regulations and guidelines, and present written ceremonies. Difficulty with reading may mean that the celebrant misinterprets legal requirements, or struggles with appropriately presenting ceremony inclusions. • Numeracy: The celebrant operates a small business, providing invoices and recording details of expenses. Difficulty in this regard may mean the

	celebrant will not effectively be able to maintain their small business in the long term. <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Digital: The celebrant runs a small business in the 21st century, requiring them to be able to communicate with their clients and stakeholders digitally. Difficulty working at an intermediate level of computer proficiency, with the ability to create and edit Microsoft Word documents and Microsoft Excel spreadsheets, complete Adobe Reader documents, send and receive emails, manage electronic documents, and interact with online databases and software systems, and/or lack of access to an internet-connected computer and printer, would make it extremely difficult to work as a celebrant. You will be required to undertake a Language, Literacy and Numeracy (LLN) test and an interview prior to enrolment, and these will assist me to assess whether you will require any training before starting or ongoing assistance during the course. The minimum age for commencing this course is 18 years.
Training Arrangements	We look at ceremonies in general in Australian culture, then take a deeper look at marriages and funerals. We also look at what is required to set up a sustainable celebrant business, and to care for and develop the business in the long-term. Content provided All content is provided via our eLearning platform, aXcelerate. There are 20 separate modules, each including multiple sections of written content for you to work through at your own pace; this written content is also provided as a PDF manual in case you want to print it out. Many sections include videos alongside the written content: there are more than 70 core content videos in which I deliver the content to you just the way I would in a classroom, and there are more than 50 additional content videos in which my celebrant colleagues and other content experts provide extra tips and tricks for you to make your celebrant practice the best it can be. There are opportunities to check your knowledge throughout the content delivery; these are not assessment tasks, just chances for you to check you're on the right track and jot down some initial thoughts about your business. As well as the required legal marriage documents and completed examples, I provide you with more than 20 document templates I have designed throughout my years as a celebrant; you can edit them as you wish and use them for your assessment tasks, and you'll be able to use them when you're out in the world working as a celebrant. Finally, my assessor Tania Marsh has created 30 ceremony certificate samples for non-marriage ceremonies that you are welcome to use in your assessment tasks and when you're a practising celebrant. You will receive a free 12-month Celebrant Institute membership so that you can access the more than 400 blog posts Josh and I have written over the years, many of which will be relevant to your studies. You will also qualify for 10% off celebrant professional development sessions run by The Celebrant Institute RTO if you are interested in further training during the time of your enrolment.
